

Query: Domestic Violence
1997 Annual Conference of the Church of the Brethren

Whereas domestic violence is on the rise at an alarming rate in the United States, without regard to race, gender, socioeconomics, or religious community; and

Whereas an estimated three to four million American women are battered each year by their husbands or partners. (Stark, E. et al. "Wife Abuse in the Medical Setting: An Introduction for Health Personnel," Monograph Series No. 7 National Clearinghouse on Domestic Violence, Washington, DC: U.S. Government Printing Office); and,

Whereas research suggests that domestic violence results in more injuries that require medical treatment than rape, auto accidents, and muggings combined. (Stark, E. and Flitcraft, A. "Violence Among Intimates: An Epidemiological Review," in Haslett et al. (eds) Handbook of Family Violence); and,

Whereas the FBI reports that 50 percent of female homicide victims are killed by their husbands or partners, and 6 percent of male homicide victims are killed by their wives or partners (Federal Bureau of Investigation, "Crime in the United States," 1986); and,

Whereas domestic violence will occur at least once in two-thirds of all marriages, and during a six month time period following such an incident, approximately 32 percent of the women are victimized again (Roy M., ed. "The Abusive Partner," New York: Van Northrand Reinhold Co.) (Langan, P.A. and Innes, C.A. "Preventing Domestic Violence Against Women," Bureau of Justice Statistics Special Report, U.S. Department of Justice); and,

Whereas boys who witness their father's abuse of their mother are more likely to inflict severe violence as adults, and girls who witness maternal abuse are more likely to tolerate abuse as adults than girls who do not witness abuse. ("Pennsylvania Coalition Against Domestic Violence," Harrisburg, PA., "Domestic Violence, General Information Booklet"); and,

Whereas careful research has been unable to find any statement by the Church of the Brethren, nor any study committee currently dealing with this issue.

Therefore we the members of the Hanover Church of the Brethren, meeting in council on October 18, 1995, voted to request the Southern Pennsylvania District, Church of the Brethren District Conference, meeting at New Fairview Church of the Brethren, York, Pa., on September 20-21, 1996, to petition the 1997 Annual Conference, meeting at Long Beach, Calif. on July 1 – 6, 1997: Should we, the Church of the Brethren, develop a position paper which speaks specifically to domestic violence?
