Invocation By Rachel Witkovsky

God of light and darkness, we come to you in worship today to be in your light. We ask that you teach us to let our own light shine out. The brilliance you have placed in each of us. May our good works and acts of service show others your glory. Let us love unconditionally as you taught us and may that love be a beacon to lead others to you. May they see your wondrous powers through us and glorify your name on high. Amen.
