

Children Helping Children with offerings and donations

When there is a disaster, like a tornado or hurricane or flood or fire or something else that happens that feels scary, you might have wondered, who takes care of the kids?

Volunteers with Children's Disaster Services (CDS) travel to the children, bringing toys and games in a Kit of Comfort to play with them.

Recently, CDS went to Nigeria to help children heal from the violence they experienced. The children and leaders sang and played together.

There are lots of people - including YOU! - who are helping children in disasters by donating their time and money to this work.

Thank you for helping Children's Disaster Services take care of the children after a disaster!
