Sacred Ground curriculum - https://www.episcopalchurch.org/sacred-ground/

Overview of Sacred Ground: https://www.episcopalchurch.org/sacred-ground/on-demand-webinar/

This program has been in use broadly within the Episcopal church for several years as part of their denomination-wide commitment to racial reconciliation. The resources that are part of the Sacred Ground program would be on a level that is accessible to Brethren but the beauty of the program is in the 11-week virtual space conversations that are at the heart of the program. Fostering a trusting, safe space for folks to explore these difficult topics is a key component. The group are often all-white groups while some are mixed racial groups. Facilitators guide the conversations. I think it's been a program restricted to use within the Episcopal church largely because of the economic cost of acquiring permission to share and view the resources (books, articles, documentaries, etc.). Royalties to pay. It would be worth exploring though if it's accessible outside the Episcopal Church if there's interest. The two main books that are required reading are Howard Thurman's Jesus and the Disinherited and Debby Irving's Waking up White and Finding Myself in the Story of Race.

Lamenting Racism Video Series and Study Guide

Racism feeds on denial. Lament moves us to tell the truth. And the truth can set us free.Stories of racial injustice fill our news feeds. Yet for too long many in the church have been hesitant to speak up about racism in its many forms. We fear offending others, of using the wrong words, of not knowing what to say. In Lamenting Racism, a team of leading pastors and theologians invite us into the transformative and motivating practice of biblical lament as a powerful way to confront racism. Through their conversations in six thought-provoking videos, they name that God's people of every race are called to consider how we have been shaped and formed by race, and they guide us into experiencing lament as an anti-racism practice. Encouraging congregations to reclaim the lost art of biblical lament, these pastors and theologians model a powerful way to pour out the fear, shame, grief, and rage of racism as we cry out to God in prayer. In the process, we will be transformed and motivated to reclaim hope and to act for a world shaped by God's inclusive vision of love and blessing.

This six-session study invites church groups to engage in the practice of biblical lament as a powerful tool in the church's struggle against racism.

Caste: The Origins of our Discontents (see below in adult section for lengthy academic description) by Isabel Wilkerson Wilkerson provides a deep dive into the 400 year US history. It is hard to visualize some of the events that have happened. She analyzes our current experience with intensive study of the actual caste system in India they are still confronted with as well as a deep dive into the Nazi Germany experience. (The Nazi party designed their rounding up and exterminating 6 million Jewish people and about as many "other" people based on research they did on the U.S.A. model beginning in the colonies and in the Deep South. She describes the struggle in our nation today as a result of the "dominant group status threat." Wilkerson provides fascinating examples.

Dear White Christians

By Jennifer Harvey

In this provocative book Jennifer Harvey argues for a radical shift in how justice-committed white Christians think about race. She calls for moving away from the reconciliation paradigm that currently dominates interracial relations and embracing instead a "reparations" paradigm.

Harvey presents an insightful historical analysis of the painful fissures that emerged among activist Christians toward the end of the Civil Rights movement, and she shows the necessity of bringing "white" racial identity into clear view in order to counter today's oppressive social structures. A deeply constructive, hopeful work, "Dear White Christians" will help readers envision new racial possibilities, including concrete examples of contemporary reparations initiatives. This book is for any who care about the gospel call to justice but feel stuck trying to get there, given the ongoing prevalence of deep racial divisions in the church and society at large.

Disunity in Christ

Heart of Racial Justice

by Brenda Salter McNeil and Rick Richardson

Racial and ethnic hostility is one of the most pervasive problems the church faces. It hinders our effectiveness as one body of believers. It damages our ability to witness to and serve seekers. Why won't this problem just go away? Because it is a spiritual battle. What should our response be in a world torn apart by prejudice, hatred and fear? We must employ spiritual weapons--prayer, repentance, forgiveness. In this book Brenda Salter McNeil and Rick Richardson reveal a new model of racial reconciliation, social justice and spiritual healing that creates both individual and community transformation.

*Trouble I've Seen

by Drew G. I. Hart

In this provocative book, theologian and blogger Drew G. I. Hart places police brutality, mass incarceration, anti-black stereotypes, poverty, and everyday acts of racism within the larger framework of white supremacy. He argues that white Christians have repeatedly gotten it wrong about race because dominant culture and white privilege have so thoroughly shaped their assumptions. He also challenges black Christians about neglecting the most vulnerable in their own communities. Leading readers toward Jesus, Hart offers concrete practices for churches that seek solidarity with the oppressed and are committed to racial justice.

*Who Will Be A Witness: Igniting Activism for God's Justice, Love, and Deliverance

by Drew G.I. Hart

Who Will Be a Witness offers a vision for communities of faith to organize for deliverance and justice in their neighborhoods, states, and nation as an essential part of living out the call of Jesus. Author Drew G. I. Hart provides incisive insights into Scripture and history, along with illuminating personal stories, to help us identify how the witness of the church has become mangled by Christendom, white supremacy, and religious nationalism. Hart provides a wide range of options for congregations seeking to give witness to Jesus' ethic of love for and solidarity with the vulnerable. At a time when many feel disillusioned and distressed, Hart calls the church to action, offering a way forward that is deeply rooted in the life and witness of Jesus. Dr. Hart's testimony is powerful, personal, and profound, serving as a compass that points the church to the future and offers us a path toward meaningful social change and a more faithful witness to the way of Jesus.

Other Books:

Between the World and Me

by Ta-Nehisi Coates

In a profound work that pivots from the biggest questions about American history and ideals to the most intimate concerns of a father for his son, Ta-Nehisi Coates offers a powerful new framework for understanding our nation's history and current crisis. Americans have built an empire on the idea of "race," a falsehood that damages us all but falls most heavily on the bodies of black women and men--bodies exploited through slavery and segregation, and, today, threatened, locked up, and murdered out of all proportion. What is it like to inhabit a black body and find a way to live within it? And how can we all honestly reckon with this fraught history and free ourselves from its burden? Between the World and Me is Ta-Nehisi Coates's attempt to answer these questions in a letter to his adolescent son. Coates shares with his son--and readers--the story of his awakening to the truth about his place in the world through a series of revelatory experiences, from Howard University to Civil War battlefields, from the South Side of Chicago to Paris, from his childhood home to the living rooms of mothers whose children's lives were taken as American plunder. Beautifully woven from personal narrative, reimagined history, and fresh, emotionally charged reportage, Between the World and Me clearly illuminates the past, bracingly confronts our present, and offers a transcendent vision for a way forward.

Black Theology and Black Power

by James Cone

Caste: The Origins of our Discontents

by Isabel Wilkerson

Wilkerson defines "caste" as "an artificial construction, a fixed and embedded ranking of human value that sets the presumed supremacy of one group against the presumed inferiority of other groups on the basis of ancestry and often immutable traits, traits that would be neutral in the abstract but are ascribed life-and-death meaning in a hierarchy favoring the dominant caste whose forebears designed it. She also describes the struggle in our nation today as a result of the "dominant group status threat."

This is a lengthy book (507 pages) with extensive research footnotes (51 pages), challenging history to learn with author Wilkerson providing incredibly fascinating examples.

Healing Racial Trauma: The Road to Resilience

by Sheila Wise Rowe

Author is the speaker at the 2023 Ministers' Pre-Conference Event Healing Racial Trauma: The Road to Resilience and Beloved Community (Monday evening 7/3 and all day Tuesday 7/4) and she is the Speaker for Wednesday Worship July 5, 2023 at 7 pm, "Bearing the Fruit of God's Love." (Sermons can be purchased from Brethren Press)

"People of color have endured traumatic histories and almost daily assaults on our dignity. We have prayed about racism, been in denial, or acted out in anger, but we have not known how to individually or collectively pursue healing from the racial trauma." As a child, Sheila Wise Rowe was bused across town to a majority white school, where she experienced the racist lie that one group is superior to all others. This lie continues to be perpetuated today by the action or inaction of the government, media, viral videos, churches, and within families of origin. In contrast, Scripture declares that we are all fearfully and wonderfully made. Rowe, a professional counselor, exposes the symptoms of racial trauma to lead readers to a place of freedom from the past and new life for the future. In each chapter, she includes an interview with a person of color to explore how we experience and resolve racial trauma. With Rowe as a reliable guide who has both been on the journey and shown others the way forward, you will find a safe pathway to resilience.

Healing Resistance

by Kazu Haga

Kazu is one of our nation's most gifted trainers in nonviolence training. His personal journey and examples make this book easily readable. He is Japanese-American and is not an "academic". He provides practical steps to implement nurturing our country towards healing and justice in all contexts in our own daily lives. At the end of his book, Kazu shares 8 responses to criticisms of nonviolence.

*Brethren author David C. Jehnsen (Ohio) and his colleague, Bernard LaFayette, Jr. wrote the Forward. (LaFayette and Jehnsen are the coauthors for the Nonviolence training manual used throughout the world and in most trainings offered through On Earth Peace.

Raising White Kids

by Jennifer Harvey

Living in a racially unjust and deeply segregated nation creates unique conundrums for white children that begin early in life and impact development in powerful ways. Raising White Kids offers age-appropriate insights for teaching children how to address racism when they encounter it and tackles tough questions about how to help white kids be mindful of racial relations while understanding their own identity and the role they can play for justice. Raising White Kids is a book for families, churches, educators, and communities who want to equip their children to be active and able allies in a society that is becoming one of the most racially diverse in the world while remaining full of racial tensions.

*Peace Research: The Canadian Journal of Peace & Conflict Studies just published their featured chapter: Justice-With-Healing: An Adapted Indigenous Model of Justice & Healing of Relationships. Volume 51, Number 2 (2019): 65-104

by Barbara Daté & Lorna Monkman

Copies of the journal two years and older are free to access, following the link for journal issues. https://www.peaceresearch.ca/

This chapter instructs faculty and facilitators how to use Barbara and Lorna's Justice-With-Healing model in a 2 ½ hour workshop which illustrates the process using the hour long vignette with history and introduction to the process first and debrief afterwards. This healing process was inspired by and then adapted from the original Maori traditional Family Group Conferencing model that now is legislated for all harms done by youth or adults in New Zealand. The JWH model is both an easy and quick way to gain the big picture about healing from harm/broken relationship procedures for novices or even for seasoned practitioners and interested community members. The unique element in this model is the use of the deep compassionate listening skill (micro-paraphrasing) used with the "Special Listening Chair" that was gifted to Barbara in a vision in 1987 in the midst of an intense Brethren group conflict. Barbara hopes to continue to provide this healing model iZoom or i-person workshops and perhaps through Ventures (McPherson College).

[Barbara Daté was interviewed for a several page Canadian Christian article about her Métis, Ojibwe and Cree students who shared with her and others about what helps them in day to day interactions when they feel harmed by microaggressions. This article and an educational handout about traveling the RED Road Together will be made available soon.]

Refugees/Immigrants

White Lies – NPR Podcast

The United States has a rich history of welcoming refugees to begin new lives, but restrictive policies and challenges to the resettlement program do arise. We urge supporters of refugees to share their experiences with friends and family, as well as with their elected officials. There are many great resources to help you get started. We have a collected a number of them here. These organizations provide opportunities to stay informed, learn about what faith communities and others are saying and doing around the country in support of refugees, and what actions are needed as the environment shifts. You may want to follow them on Facebook and Twitter, as well as accessing their web resources.
